

NEWS CULLED IN THE CAPITAL

ACTIVITIES OF STATE DEPARTMENTS—OTHER HAPPENINGS

Special Columbus Correspondent.

THE 1916 state automobile license tag will have a solid black background with white letters and figures. This design has just been adopted by Registrar W. H. Walker of the automobile department. The name "Ohio" will appear at the top of the tag on the left hand side with "1916" directly below. On the right side of the tag in letters four inches high will appear the license number. On the tags for dealers the letter "D" will appear between the letters and figures and on the tags for electric machines the letter "E" will appear in a similar position. These changes will make identification of machines easier. Registrar Walker will immediately contract for the manufacture of these tags. They will cost the state 19 1/4 cents a set, three-fourths of a cent less than the price paid for tags last year. The contract calls for not less than 190,000 sets of tags. In some states 23 cents are being paid for each pair of tags. Last year the state used 122,504 sets. From now on owners of machines will be furnished duplicate sets of tags for 50 cents per set. Dealers can get duplicates for $1. This is a reduction of one-half. The price of a dealer's license has also been reduced from $20 to $10. Owners pay $5 for gasoline machines and $3 for electric. Motorcycle owners pay $2 for their licenses.

Jobs Would Be Placed in Jeopardy. Unless the courts tie up the operation of the new civil service law, which is scheduled to go into effect Sunday, many scores of Democratic office holders in various state departments will find themselves jobless and their places filled by Republicans after Monday. There are some 1,600 employees whose places are placed in jeopardy by the new law. If the courts tie up the act pending a decision by the supreme court as to its constitutionality the salaries of these 1,600 employees will be held up by the state civil service commission; so it will be seen that no matter what the situation is it will be one of misery for the occupants of the offices. If the law is not held up Republican heads of departments will displace their Democratic subordinates with Republicans and these will serve provisionally until civil service examinations can be arranged for the places in question, for which it will take from one month to a year or more to prepare.

Make Probe State-Wide. The public utilities commission will make its probe of the charges that railroads are discriminating against Ohio operators in coal transportation state-wide. The investigation was started upon complaint of Ohio miners against the 25 coal-carrying railroads. Early this month the Sunday Creek Coal Co. joined with the miners, and since the contest has practically resolved itself into a fight between that company and the Hocking Valley railroad. During the hearing Tuesday the commission made it known that all the other railroads would be compelled to come in and show their hands in the controversy. Percy Tetlow of Washingtonville, legislative agent of the Ohio miners, said that the miners would ask the commission to put its own experts on the books of the defendant railroads to determine the exact rates they are charging for carrying Ohio coal, compared to the much lower rate charged on foreign coal.

Annex Is to Be Remodeled. The state house annex, erected more than 15 years ago, is to be remodeled to provide additional office space. Garret storehouses and musty old office rooms which were abandoned several years ago because of poor light and faulty ventilation are to be provided with new skylights and ventilation and transformed into fine office rooms. The elevator system of the building stops one floor below the part that is to be improved, and so the employees who are assigned to these makeshift rooms will be obliged to climb winding flights of stairs to get to them, a circumstance which, they no doubt, will complain about, because public employees are accustomed to having everything convenient.

Returns to Old System. William Beard of Columbus will be in charge of a detail of some 50 or 60 police who will be on duty at the state fair. Fifteen of the "cops" will be from Columbus, while the others will be appointed on recommendation of the fair board members from various parts of the state. For several years members of the National Guard have been used for police duty at the fair. This year the board is returning to an old system.

Medical Board Changes Rules. Because of objections made by colored citizens, the state medical board has changed its rules so that applicants for licenses from those who wish to practice as drugless healers will not be required to file photographs of themselves, together with a statement showing their race and whether they are of American or foreign birth. The contention was made that if these rules were enforced that this would lead to discrimination against members of the colored race. Complaint against the rules was made to Gov. Willis.

Will Become Private Citizen. George C. Rings, assistant state fire marshal, of West Union, Williams county, who has served in the department during each Democratic administration during the past nine years, will step down and out and become a private citizen Sept. 1. Realizing that his tenure would not last any longer than Bert B. Buckley, the new fire marshal, would permit it to continue, he concluded to resign so as to avoid the embarrassment of being asked to leave. He is the first field man of the department to resign.

Man Charged With Extortion. The state banking department is furiously watching developments in the case of P. L. Andrews, who is charged in the Columbus police court with extortion and other violations of the state "loan shark" law. It is especially watching this case because, under the newly operative statute, it has full jurisdiction over agents who lend money on salaries and chattels just as well as it has over the bigger bankers. It is averred in the charges against Andrews that he forced borrowers to assign their wages for three years in advance, even while the sums loaned were not greater than $25. One year ago Andrews, who has offices in all the big cities of the state, was convicted in the police court in Columbus and paid a fine. The charges now filed against him are almost identical with the charges on which conviction was had. Without expressing any opinion in the pending case, State Banking Supt. Harry T. Hall said that it was his determination to "clean up" the loan shark situation in the state, and he has full authority to make such a cleaning since the laws give him the right to refuse licenses to those he deems unworthy.

Conservation of Human Life. Ohio will be the first state in the Union to have a state fair exhibit dealing with conservation of human life. This exhibit will be shown at this year's fair under the direction of the state industrial commission, Victor T. Noonan, director of safety of the commission, officiating. Fifteen large corporations and railroads will have exhibits showing what is being done to conserve the lives and limbs of employees of Ohio factories. The safety exhibit will illustrate proper methods of accident prevention, sanitation, hygiene and welfare work. The New York Central railroad is sending three carloads of exhibits for a booth which will contain colored pictures showing how workshops are guarded and how passengers and employees are protected from accident. One of the most interesting exhibits will be one by the Goodrich Rubber Co. of Akron, which will not only show its accident prevention work but also its methods of medical examination work of its 15,000 employees.

Has Interesting Career. James L. Hampton, the newly elected secretary of the state liquor license commission, has had an interesting career. Back in 1899 he was made secretary of the old state board of equalization. Hardly more than a year later he became assistant state law librarian and served in that capacity for four years. Then he resigned to become the executive clerk of Gov. Bushnell. Meantime Mr. Hampton had been graduated from Ohio Northern university at Ada, where he had married the daughter of the founder of the university, H. C. Lehr, for years a teacher also but now retired. Until Sept. 3, when the new license law will become effective, Mr. Hampton will get a salary at the rate of $2,000, but under the new law his salary will be $2,400 a year.

Expect to Explode Old Fallacies. How to deal with milk cows to make them yield the greatest results is going to be one of the problems tackled at the state fair. Cows with good records and cows with bad records are going to be on exhibition and testimonials will be invited from their owners and observers on the ways and wherefores of each case. In the meantime the experts of the state expect to explode some of the old popular fallacies about milk production in general. Indeed, whether or not there is any virtue in the oft-repeated tales about the so-called soothing effects of music during milking time and other bizarre folk lore is going to be tested in a real, scientific way. Everything will have to give way to careful and relentless scientific investigation.

Says Economy Is Practiced. Newton M. Miller, directing commissioner from Ohio to the Panama-Pacific exposition, replying briefly by wire to the charges made by State Auditor Donahy that there has been excessive extravagance in the conduct of the restaurant in the Ohio building at the exposition, says that economy has been practiced by the Ohio commissioners at San Francisco. He says that he knows of no wine or whiskey bills, as were mentioned by the Donahy charges and he declares that he "feels certain" he will be able to prove the statements to be "misrepresentations" when the full facts shall have been presented.

Cries as He Leaves Pen. Clarence Williams, a "second term" criminal, was released from the penitentiary Monday upon completing a six-year term from Butler county for burglary. Ohio Day at Panama Expo. The latest date for Ohio day at the Panama exposition is Oct. 6. Gov. Willis will attend. He is scheduled to spend five days at the fair. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Willis and Adj. Gen. P. W. Hough and Mrs. Hough. The Ohio Society of California and the Ohio commission to the exposition will arrange a program of events for the day. The chief function will be a reception and grand ball, which will be held at night. Every former resident of Ohio in California will be invited to the affair.

Ruling of Attorney General. The state highway commissioner has no authority in law to co-operate with a county road improvement association by giving it state funds to be used in building a road, the money to be expended under the direction of the association, so Attorney General Turner has ruled. The question was raised by the Portage County Improvement association, which asked State Highway Commissioner Cowan to allow the association to spend state money in road improvement work. This cannot be legally done.

FIX BLAME FOR FATAL B. & O. WRECK IN OHIO

Inspectors of Utilities Commission Hold Operating Department of Railway Responsible for Seven Deaths.

Western Newspaper Union News Service. Columbus.—Direct blame for the wreck at Orient on Aug. 12, when seven lives were lost, was placed on the operating department of the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern railway and on the crew of the passenger and freight trains that were in collision, by the inspectors of the state utilities commission, in a report just filed with the commission.

There were not enough night telegraph offices open on the line to make operation of heavy passenger trains safe, the inspectors declared. The passenger crew did not observe the standing rules for safety and neither did the freight crew, it was claimed. The passenger coach that was wrecked was built 32 years ago, the records of the road showed, the inspectors declared. They said that if modern steel coaches had been used the loss of life would have been much smaller.

SOMETHING TO LEARN

MYSTERY IN MURDER SHOOT OVER BORDER

BELIEVED INDIANA PASTOR HAD GERMAN WAR SECRETS.

Dead Lived Among Slaves and His Pro-Teuton Utterances Aroused Enmity of Neighbors.

Gary, Ind., Aug. 27.—Out of a mass of evidence two theories developed in the investigation of the assassination of Rev. Edmund A. M. Kayser, the Tollestien (Ind.) pastor. Kayser was shot twice while in his study on Tuesday night.

The first, and the police think, more plausible solution of the mysterious murder is that the pastor was the victim of fanatical protagonists of the allies because of his pro-German utterances.

The second theory finds its foundation in the fact that the clergyman had become involved in a factional fight in the Evangelical Lutheran church, of which he was pastor, and had received numerous threatening letters as a result.

Kayser's emphatic pro-German stand since the outbreak of the European war often had involved him in street fights. The pastor a month ago appealed for police protection, declaring he had been threatened.

Greenebaum is general manager of the Indiana Transportation company, charterer of the Eastland. Six federal officials of the steamboat inspection service escaped indictment only because the jurors were advised they could not be successfully prosecuted in the state courts.

These are the government officials the jury believed culpable for the Eastland disaster.

RUSS FLEE GRODNO FORTRESS

Military Property Being Removed, Says Dispatch—Olita Stronghold Is Taken.

Petrograd, Aug. 30.—Grodno is being evacuated. Only sufficient troops to delay the German advance are now in the fortress. Military property has been removed.

Olita, a Russian fortress guarding the Niemen river between Kovno and Grodno, has been captured by the Germans, the general staff reported at Berlin. The fall of this city, on the bank of the Niemen, opens the way for another drive toward Vilna, to the northeast, and Grodno, to the south.

For the second time the German admiralty issued a statement at Berlin declaring that the Russian admiralty claim that the battle cruiser Moltke and other German warships had been destroyed in the Gulf of Riga, is a "fake."

"No such battle took place," the admiralty said. "The Russians allege that they captured some German ships. They probably mean those steamers captured by the Germans and sunk to block the passage."

Revenue legislation, including the re-enactment of the war revenues bill which produces about $60,000,000 annually. The conservation bills, for which the west is clamoring. Secretary Lane is anxious to have these measures, most of which went through one house last session, approved by both houses at this session. Rural credits legislation, which was sidetracked in the closing days of the Sixty-third congress. In addition to these general matters the senate will begin early consideration of the closure rule and the revival of the shipping bill is expected. The senate also has pending the treaties with Nicaragua and Colombia.

RUSSIAN ARMIES RETREATING.

London.—At every point on the 900-mile front stretching from the Baltic to the Danube the Russian resistance has been swept away, according to claims made officially in Berlin, and the czar's armies are declared to be in danger of a rout. The Germans have broken through southeast of Kovno, an official statement says, and are advancing on Vilna.
